Spanish Language and Culture in Toledo, Spain

June 11 - July 14, 2017

This program is coordinated by Northern Illinois University's Study Abroad Office (SAO) and sponsored by the NIU Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures and Español en Toledo (ESTO), an affiliate of the Universidad de Castilla - La Mancha.

PROGRAM DATES: Students should plan to arrive in Toledo on Sunday, June 11, 2017 (see "Arrival in Spain" section). The academic portion of the program will officially begin with the commencement of classes on Monday, June 12, 2017. Classes will end on Friday, July 14; however, students may reside in the dormitory or with their host families until Sunday, July 16.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES: Every year since 1984 ESTO (Español en Toledo) has been offering a variety of courses on Spanish Language and Culture, aimed at non-natives, under the auspices of the University of Castilla - La Mancha and the sponsorship of the Patronato Universitario de Toledo. The overall objective of this program is to provide students with the opportunity of living in Spain for five weeks, while also being immersed in the language and culture of contemporary Spain. The program endeavors to provide enrichment of the student's general culture through small classes in the picturesque old part of the city, along with a strong orientation toward both humanistic learning and more pragmatic studies in Spanish business and commercial correspondence. Not only does the program increase the student's knowledge of Spanish, both written and oral, but a series of afternoon cultural lectures and field trips on dance, film, cuisine, historical monuments and museums provides opportunities to expand one's cultural knowledge beyond the formal literary, historical and commercial course work of the morning classes. In addition, the program includes various field trips to unique and exciting cultural and historical sites.

NIU PROGRAM DIRECTOR: Professor Stephen Vilaseca is an associate professor at NIU. He earned a PhD in Hispanic and Luso-Brazilian Literatures and Linguistics from the University of Minnesota. His research interests include 20th and 21st-century Spanish Peninsular literature and film, urban studies, cultural geography, and spatial theory. He has published a book on Spanish squatters and articles on the relationship between public and private space, urban growth and cultural resistance in Spain. He is looking forward to directing the program and to interacting with students in Spain.

UNIVERSIDAD DE CASTILLA - LA MANCHA FACULTY (UCLM): FLSP 301, 302, and 311 will be taught by instructors from the Universidad de Castilla – La Mancha.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CASTILLA - LA MANCHA: Classes will be held at the beautiful Palacio de Lorenzana, formerly the residence of a Spanish Cardinal. The University of Castilla - La Mancha is a modern comprehensive Spanish university, with campuses in Albacete, Ciudad Real, Cuenca and Toledo. It was founded in 1982 by combining several university centers which had formerly been under the direction of the University of Madrid. Today it consists of 33,000 students, 7,000 of them at the Toledo campus, and 1,200 faculty organized into 25 departments. The Toledo campus consists of Faculties of Law and Social Sciences; Environmental Studies; Humanities; Engineering; Nursing and Physical Therapy; Physical Education; and Education.

Participants in this program will have access to the University library, housed in the lovely San Pedro Mártir Building, along with the same rights and privileges as Spanish students (sports clubs or cultural activities) for free or reduced prices.

TOLEDO: THE SITE OF THE PROGRAM: Toledo, the most important city in Medieval Spain, has a very rich cultural history and is one of the most picturesque and beautiful places in all Castile. A fortress town since pre-Roman times, Toledo was the ancient capital of the Visigothic Kings. Retaken from the Moors by the King Alfonso VI in 1085, it became the most important political and social center of Spain throughout the Middle Ages and early Renaissance. It was the scene of a fusion of Christian, Arab, and Jewish culture, an example of which was the School of Translators established by Alfonso X the Wise in the 13th century. Many of its buildings show Islamic influences, including former mosques and the Mudéjar synagogues of Santa Maria la Blanca (12th century) and El Tránsito (14th century). The Cathedral is generally considered the most Hispanic of Spanish Gothic cathedrals. In fact, the historical heritage is so rich that the whole city is a veritable museum. In the 16th century it was the home of the great Greco-Spanish artist, El Greco, many of whose paintings can be seen in some of the buildings of the city, as well as in his former home which has been preserved as a museum.

The Alcázar or fortress which dominates the city was begun about 1531 to a design by Alonso de Covarrubias, with a fine patio by Francisco Villalpando. Toledo's narrow winding streets, its ancient walls, medieval castles and bridges, make it one of the most picturesque cities in Spain. Currently, it is home to over 60,000 Spaniards and a direct 30-minute train ride from Madrid. Toledo is one of the most attractive possible sites in which to learn the language and absorb the atmosphere of Spain.

PROGRAM AUDIENCE: This program is open to intermediate and advanced undergraduate level and graduate level students. Students should have an interest in Spanish language and culture, along with a desire to increase their knowledge of these areas through the means of an on-site experience (see section entitled, "Eligibility Requirements").

CLASSES: The program will be conducted totally in Spanish.

Students may enroll for a maximum of two courses, or 6 semester hours of credit.

Each class will meet for approximately two hours per period each day of the week in addition to other outside-the-classroom assignments. Class attendance is mandatory. Students will also be required to attend informal meetings each day that will provide orientation, exploration and study of Toledo and its culture and history.
